25 YEAR RE-REVIEW

18 October 1963

Mr. R. W. Richardson
Vice President
Goodyear Aerospace Corporation
Akron, Ohio

Dear Bob:

Following up on your visit with me the other day, I find that some of my people have a high degree of familiarity with some of the subjects we discussed, and I think it would therefore be most helpful if you could arrange a thorough and comprehensive briefing on all of your activities which have a bearing on the collection, analysis, and product of all sorts of intelligence, particularly in the scientific and technical fields.

I can arrange to fly with a few of our people out to Akron (perhaps not more than five or six of us) or, if you would prefer, we could arrange to receive you and your people here in the pickle factory.

What I'm saying is, we are interested, we do want to explore your capabilities further with you, and I await your further word.

Faithfully yours,

/s/

Marshall S. Carter
Lieutenant General, USA
Deputy Director
